Introduction

Aligarh Muslim University (AMU) is a premier Central University included as an institution of 'National Importance' in the VII Schedule of the Constitution of India with several faculties and maintained institutions. AMU draws students from all over the country and from foreign countries including SAARC and the Commonwealth. Imbibing the objective tenor of the west and preserving the oriental tradition, Sir Syed Ahmad Khan, the great visionary, established the Mohammadan Anglo Oriental College on May 24, 1875 with a resolve to initiate western education amongst Muslims and liberate their mind from out-moded patterns of thought and behavior. At the very inception Sir Syed made a distinction between talim (education) and tarbiyat (training); the former preparing an individual for an occupation and the latter geared towards achieving refinement. Sir Syed thus visualized its future:

... This college may expand into a University whose sons shall go forth ... to preach the gospel of free enquiry, of large hearted toleration and pure morality".

This vision became a reality in 1920 when this College matured to the status of Aligarh Muslim University. Since then it has ever been expanding, diversifying and relentlessly working towards keeping its promise to the commitment of its founder. The residential character of this University, where most of the staff and students reside on the campus itself, contributes greatly to the country's multi-religious, multi-social and multi-lingual character.

There are thirteen faculties and each comprising of several Departments of Studies with a teaching strength of 2,000 faculty members disseminating knowledge to more than twenty eight thousand students. Amongst some of the chief institutions maintained by the university are Zakir Husain College of Engineering & Technology, Jawaharlal Nehru Medical College & Hospital, A.K. Tibbiya College, Institute of Ophthalmology, Ziauddin Dental College, the University Polytechnic, the University Women's Polytechnic, Institute of Islamic Studies, Centre of West Asian Studies, and five high schools including Ahmadi School for the Visually Challenged.

The pioneers of women's education, Sheikh Abdullah and his wife Ala Bi, resisting severe opposition, eventually succeeded in supplementing to Sir Syed's mission by establishing the Women's College that admits more than 2500 girls to various undergraduate courses.

CENTRE FOR DISTANCE EDUCATION (CDE)

The Centre for Distance Education (CDE) is an integral part of the University and an expression of the University's concern and commitment for spread of education in all strata of society and all parts of the country. As a matter of fact, the desire and demand for education exist in every section of the society, but since Colleges and Universities cannot accommodate beyond a defined limit, many cannot find admission. There is also a large section of society which is unable to participate in the regular / formal stream of education due to occupational, financial or social constraints. Persons like these can get an opportunity to derive the benefits of education through distance mode.

By taking advantage of recent developments in information and communication technologies to widen the reach of education and to enhance quality of education through the use of multi-media methods of teaching and learning, the Centre aims at providing the students an opportunity to learn and appear for the examination of various courses which will be conducted by the University. Adopting flexible and innovative methods of education to ensure 'independent learning' to anyone, anytime and anywhere, the Centre offers programmes of the study that are customized to meet the learning requirements of knowledge seekers as well as to ensure that they learn at their own pace and convenience. Within the financial means of University, due care has been taken to keep the cost of education low so that educationally backward sections can take advantage of University's programmes. The CDE has a special commitment to the cause of Women's education, particularly of the minority community, among those who are educationally and economically deprived section. Given an opportunity to study at home supported with study materials, women can benefit immensely from this programme.

Last Message of Sir Syed Ahmad Khan

(17 October 1817 - 27 March, 1898)

"You have reached a particular stage and remember one thing that when I undertook the task, there was criticism all around against me, abuses were hurled upon me, life had become so different for me that I aged before my age, I lost my hair, my eyesight, but not my vision. my vision never dimmed, my determination never failed. I build this institution for you and I am sure, you will carry the light of this institution far and wide till darkness disappears from all around"
